Probe as man is crushed to death by lorry

BY ROB GIBSON

rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

AN investigation has been launched after a 51-year-old engineer was crushed to death by a lorry.

Officials from the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) confirmed yesterday that they have launched an investigation into the death of Bryn Evans, who died on an industrial estate in Bletchley last week.

Officers were called at 11.18am on Tuesday, April 7, after reports that a man had been seriously injured in Denbigh West.

Early reports suggest that Mr Evans, from Hexham Gardens, Bletchley, had been directing a lorry into a loading bay when it pinned him against a wall.

Staff dialled 999 and an air ambulance attended, alongside regular ambulance crews and police, but Mr Evans was pronounced dead at the scene.

He is survived by his father, brother and sister.

Yesterday, his sister, Kim Evans, said: "He was a very private person but he was exceptionally kind. He would do anything for anyone and he had a heart of gold.

"He was very good to his family. He was a rock and I don't know what we're going to do without him."

Mr Evans had a passion for motor sport and enjoyed 4x4 driving.

He was a member of Milton Keynes District Motor Club and worked voluntarily as a marshal at rally car events.

The incident happened at the offices of Trevett Engineering Ltd, on Third Avenue, where Mr Evans had been employed as a working manager for 11 years.

Bryn Evans: Thought to have been directing a lorry into a loading bay when it pinned him against a wall

Managing Director, Richard Trevett, also paid tribute to his close friend and colleague.

"He was my number one guy and he will be sadly missed by everybody," Mr Trevett said.

"He was a top notch worker.

"We're like a small family so it's very difficult for the staff at the moment, he was very respected.

"He never missed a day's work and he often didn't take a holiday, he just carried on working.

"I can't put it into words."

An inquest into Mr Evans' death opened at Milton Keynes Coroner's Court yesterday but the full inquest will not take place until November.

City roads closed in car bomb scare

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

POLICE sealed off two roads and evacuated a leisure plaza in the city centre after a member of the public mistook a set of car door guards for a bomb.

A passer by called police at 12.42pm last Wednesday to report the suspicious looking devices on a car parked in the retail park near Planet Ice.

The plaza was evacuated and police cordoned off Avebury Boulevard and Elder Gate while experts investigated the car.

But when the shocked driver returned to find his car surrounded by police he explained that the devices were door guards, designed to protect the car from scratches and dents.

The driver, from Milton Keynes, who asked to remain anonymous, said: "My car was nearly damaged in the incident as a result but fortunately I got there in time.

"They said it's a suspicious looking device.

"It was perfectly innocent and things got blown out proportion.

"Although we live in difficult times people need to use some common sense because these things don't look like explosive devices."

He bought the product from a retailer called Doordefenders, who manufacture magnetic car door guards.

The two tube shaped bumpers are made from shock absorbent foam and are attached to the side of the car doors, attached to the car by a PVC coated cable.

Door defenders like those below forced police to close two city roads

President of The Doordefender Company, Kirk Hochrein, said: "I'm not sure how someone could mistake the Doordefender for a bomb but I'm glad the situation was defused so to speak.

"The latest version of the Doordefender has a large logo across it so there should be no more confusion."

A spokesman for Thames Valley Police said: "Police took the necessary precautions and following investigations and enquiries the vehicle was not considered suspicious. It appeared suspicious but it was completely innocent."

Political division hampers improvements at council

IMPROVEMENT of the city's council is being thwarted by political division.

As a result, Milton Keynes Council is not up to the challenge of serving one of the UK's fastest growing areas, according to the Audit Commission.

Its Annual Audit and Inspection Letter was presented to councillors last Wednesday (April 8).

'Innovation and continuous improvement,' it says, 'are being held back by an excessive state of internal political siege.'

The independent watchdog refers to 'the lack of collective leadership responsibility and agreement across the council's political parties', resulting in it 'not acting as one organisation'.

The fact that more of the officers in the senior management team are temporary than permanent also contributes to its problems.

The critical letter follows last month's Comprehensive Performance Assessment (CPA), in which Milton Keynes Council received one of a possible four stars. This rated it alongside Haringey, Doncaster and Surrey councils - the worst three per cent in the country.

Before that, Ofsted's Annual Performance Assessment (APA) said that the authority's services for young people do not meet the minimum standards.

The letter points out how the council is improving in terms of housing, environment and cultural services, but its childrens services have deteriorated.

'Its lack of collective political leadership is diverting too much focus and energy away from sustained improvement'.

The much-lauded regeneration plans, which set to transform the fortunes of areas such as the Lakes Estate, are yet to show progress and therefore the council is 'not demonstrating adequate community leadership'.

Even its meetings are criticised as 'insufficiently welcoming to the public'.

At the moment, 30 per cent of children in nursery and primary schools are from black and ethnic minority communities - yet the approach to dealing with the changing population is 'underdeveloped'.

The Audit Commission goes on to point out that the council has not fulfilled the recommendations set out in March 2008 - namely the aim to 'work as one organsation'.

The commission, which sets out to ensure money is not wasted, said: "Value for money has deteriorated over the past year."

Cllr Isobel McCall, leader of Milton Keynes Council, said an Improvement Board is being set up to help parties work together.

"There are numerous comments about political leadership in the letter. It makes it clear that there is a need for all parties to work together for the benefit of Milton Keynes. Politics is getting in the way of the council carrying out its business. I don't think anybody expects parties to agree on everything. But this is about having a common objective of improving services for local people."

Lock'Em Inn leaflet explains to potential drunk trouble makers what a night in the cells can be like

A no-holds-barred warning to drunks

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

HOW would you like an en-suite room with hand delivered food and plenty of bars?

The invite might not be as good as it sounds because this is the latest campaign by police to warn potential drunk trouble makers what a night in the cells can be like.

Milton Keynes Community Safety Partnership launched a tourist-style leaflet ahead of the busy holiday period, promoting the unique facilities of the 'Lock 'Em Inn', otherwise known as Milton Keynes Police Station.

It targets anyone who might commit drink related public order or violent offences.

Open 24/7, 365 days a year, the Lock 'Em Inn promises:

- Telephone (1 call only per guest)
- (CC)TV in all rooms
- Select meals provided
- All cells en-suite
- All major credit cars and belongings confiscated
- Wipe-clean mattresses
- Sturdy locks on all rooms as standard
- Free shuttle bus to the doorstep (with secure cage)
- All guests entered onto National Database

Inspector Colleen Lavery said: "Whilst we are using a tongue-in-cheek approach to this campaign, the message we are sending out is a serious one.

"We want people to come for a night out in Milton Keynes and enjoy themselves without ending up in a police cell because they have had too much to drink and done something silly.

"As the leaflet says, you could end up paying for your stay at the Lock' Em Inn with a day in court, a criminal record and even a prison sentence."

The leaflet describes the atmosphere as 'truly unique', the accommodation as 'minimalist chic' and offers a special weekend break if you get arrested on Saturday and stay until court opens on Monday.

It also includes testimony from previous guests, who describe the shame and discomfort of their experiences.

Victoria Schofield, Chair for the After8 Group, said: "Milton Keynes is already a wonderful place for people of all ages to go to on a night out, but the police's 'shock' message is a sobering thought for anyone thinking of spoiling the party.

"The point is clear, have a fun and safe night out but do so in a responsible manner."

Unadopted roads cut by a quarter

THE number of unadopted roads has been cut by a quarter – but there are still too many residents living without basic amenities, according to councillors.

The backlog of 'sites', each of which can comprise several roads, awaiting transfer from developers' to Milton Keynes Council's control has been reduced from 79 to 59.

Until this happens, roads can remain untarmacked, without signs or white lines. Street lights do not have to be fixed by the council, nor roads swept.

However, councillors say that too many residents - some of whom have lived in their homes for up to a decade - are continuing to pay council tax for services they do not receive.

Cllr Sam Crooks said: "It's Broughton that I'm particularly worried about. I was promised it would be adopted by March 31. Some of it has been, but not all– the whole area around Tanfield Square is still not adopted and people have been there for four years."

Cllr John Bint, who also covers the area, says most of the queries brought to him by residents involve adoption of roads. We have had some good progress. However, the council has been providing conflicting information as to what's happening.

They told me three streets had just been adopted, when they hadn't. Residents just want to hear that tarmac, white lines and street lights will be sorted."

The issue will come before Milton Keynes Council at its next full meeting on April 14.

No rush as A&E admissions drop over Easter

THE pressure on A&E services dropped over Easter weekend after a desperate plea from the city's health services for people to think twice before rushing in.

From Good Friday to Easter Monday, a total of 591 people were seen by staff at the Accident and Emergency department of Milton Keynes Hospital.

The department is used to coping with up to 200 patients a day but last Monday, April 6, services were stretched by 255 patients.

Some staff predicted this would be the busiest weekend on record.

NHS Milton Keynes appealed for people not to call an ambulance unless it is a genuine emergency, urging them to try their GP, NHS Direct or pharmacies instead.

March figures showed a 13.5 per cent increase in A&E numbers on the same period last year.

But yesterday a hospital spokesman said: "The work carried out in conjunction with the local Primary Care Trust to advise people about alternative services does appear to be working."

The spokesman said that local health services are planning to research the reasons behind the unexpected surge in numbers for March and warned that May bank holiday could be much busier.

"The weather in May, combined with the pollen season, people pursuing outdoor activities, and DIY, all contributes to the busiest time of year," she said.

MK LETTERS

Letters to The Editor, MK NEWS, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, Milton Keynes MK15 0DU | letters@mk-news.co.uk

Roundabout safety

SIR – There has been considerable debate recently around the removal of, and trimming back of trees and shrubs on roundabouts within Milton Keynes and I would like to take this opportunity to clarify the situation.

This work is taking place for two main reasons.

Firstly, for road safety reasons clearing the outer ring of trees and shrubs has been carried out to increase visibility for motorists approaching and using the roundabout.

The use of landscape as a visual block to a straight through view is accepted as a means of reducing vehicle speed.

The work carried out here is to improve visibility as people drive around the roundabout.

This work has been carried out to seven roundabouts over the winter period and is in direct response to a high level of accident statistics for those roundabouts.

Secondly, as part of the tree and shrub removal work this is giving the council's landscape team the opportunity to review the remaining landscape on the roundabouts and rework and improve them.

The landscape, particularly in Milton Keynes, is a dynamic, living environment ever changing, with the need for management over time. This is in contrast to the built environment which is static.

This means that the council has the duty to intervene over time as the landscape grows and develops, pruning to reinvigorate stock so that flower, colour, etc is maintained.

Regrettably, this also means that plants sometimes have to be removed so that remaining trees and shrubs can develop properly.

More specifically, there have been concerns raised about the removal and pruning works carried out on the South Saxon roundabout on the junction H6/V7.

The removal of the ring of plane trees around the outside of the roundabout revealed the yew trees planted within the central ring which were in a poor state.

It was felt necessary to reduce the height of these yews, so that they can grow to form an evergreen hedge as it was believed this was the original design concept of the Development Corporation.

We appreciate that the cutting back of the yews looks dramatic, but we are fortunate in that it is a plant species that will re-grow.

We would expect this 'green circle' to be re-established within three to five years. As the height of the yew has been reduced three silver birch trees were planted within the inner circle to give some height and contrast. The outer ring will now be maintained as grass to allow clear visibility.

Over time we believe that the end result will be a better looking, healthier, better managed landscape on much safer roundabouts.
Pele Bhamber
Head of transportation, Milton Keynes Council

Loughton looks like world war battlefield

SIR – I'd like to applaud the letter from A Ravenscroft (Council should stop chainsaw massacre, MK Letters, March 25) for raising the issue of the severe defoliation around the city caused by council contractors.

In recent weeks more and more areas of Loughton have come to resemble First World War battlefields with previously lush green areas of foliage reduced to fields of bare razor-edged stumps and mature, green trees being 'pruned' until only their naked trunks remain.

All of this has been done without any consultation with the rate-payers affected by these actions and calls to the range of authorities that might be responsible have received the usual treatment of being continual referred to some other agency.

Surprisingly much of this work also seems to be done at weekends, on overtime rates, which has led some to speculate that it's driven by a need to 'burn budget' to ensure that the council spends all of its cash allocation and thus avoids being considered for cuts in next year's budget allocation round.

Others believe that it's driven by the need to reduce costs by using a 10-year maintenance plan ie each area of parkland is now only trimmed and pruned once every 10 years thus driving the need to cut every bush and shoot off just a few inches above ground level.

Whatever the real reason, I wish whoever is responsible for this would stop it because this 'chainsaw gardening' is having some pretty unfortunate effects.

Large areas of previously soothing cool and verdant parkland now just look like an industrial wasteland; unsightly and unwelcoming.

We're told they will grow back in 2-3 years but is it really necessary to be subjected to such devastation for 2-3 years at a time?

Several lines of ancient hedgerow that pre-date the city itself seem to have disappeared; I'm not convinced that these will grow back in a couple of years.

Richard Hughes
Loughton

■ SIR – Some five years ago I had to leave Milton Keynes for family reasons.

Since then I have regularly visited the 'city of trees' and watched its well considered landscape vision grow to create a unique and uniquely beautiful city which I still regret having to leave.

It is beyond my comprehension how the council, key custodians of this heritage, can apparently fail to realise what makes MK exceptional and so different from other cities, and continue to erode important components of it's wonderful landscape.

The destruction of roundabout planting, which made these functional traffic engineering features into places of delight, seems particularly ill considered since it will surely enable more irresponsible driving, higher speeds and consequently more serious accidents than any that have occurred so far.

If accidents on MK roundabouts are a significant problem there are many other solutions which could be pursued which would enable the visual quality of the road system to remain inviolate.

Come on engineers, use your imaginations instead of your rule books.

Come on councillors, wake up to your responsibilities.
R N E Higson.

Traffic questions

SIR – The people living and working in Stony Stratford and some of the visitors to the town, will have received questionnaires about the recent traffic changes in and around Stony Stratford.

I live in Horsefair Green where the traffic flow has increased by 1,000 vehicles a day.

This has made Horsefair Green, Silver Street and Church Street less safe, more polluted with noise and traffic fumes and a very unpleasant and stressful environment to live in. The Green is a public amenity and the whole area is a conservation area, so residents and visitors alike are paying a high environmental price for the one way High Street.

In my view the High Street in Stony Stratford should be made two way again, because the traffic that used to travel north along the High Street is now travelling along residential streets.

We are asked on the questionnaire to consider a number of alternatives to the High Street becoming two way again.

Please think carefully before endorsing these as they can only pass the traffic problems elsewhere. Please also consider the residents and the safety of the surrounding streets when completing your questionnaires.

Tesco travel

SIR – Re Tesco in Newport – I come to Newport to get away from Tesco's all-encompassing proliferation.

Tesco stated that people will travel 10-15 minutes to get to a supermarket. Well, Newport already has two within 15 minutes, namely Kingston and Wolverton, not including the new Sainsbury's.

I would like to know what is being done to prevent the planning approval.

Fancy thinking

SIR – Regarding the new coachway.

Surely it would have been better to have a coachway that is built and usable than one that is full of fancy finishes but construction not even commenced.

This seems typical of MK.

What we need is somewhere that can be used not a fancy white elephant like the Hockey Stadium.

Red Nose no-no

SIR – Regarding your story 'No ban for Red Nose footy fan'.

So that makes it OK?

I find it implausible that the so-called 'comedian' should not recieve a ban.

As the courts imposed a fine that his friends are going to pay, he gets away absolutely free.

Had they (the courts) imposed a ban, even for the remainder of the season then maybe the right message would have got across.

Now it seems that anyone can invade the pitch and just come out with a ban claiming it was for charity. I wonder how many football matches magistrates go to these days?

■ SIR – Ran on the pitch for charity? Do me a favour. Yet again this country and it's legal system is laughable.

Woman accused of failing to care for pony and pet rabbits

A WOMAN has appeared in court charged with failing to provide adequate care to a pony and four rabbits.

Susan Gough, 40, from Hastings, Stony Stratford appeared at Milton Keynes Magistrates Court yesterday for the start of a four-day trial.

She pleaded not guilty at an earlier hearing to three charges of causing unnecessary suffering to a pony and two rabbits and a fourth of failing to meet the duty of an owner to ensure the welfare of four rabbits.

Olive Lycourgou, RSPCA prosecutor, said the pony was seen in a field at School Lane, Yardley Gobion in Northamptonshire by inspector Nicky Cook on November 7, 2007.

Miss Lycourgou said: "Miss Cook said that the pony was in good body condition but had overgrown hooves. It was walking uncomfortably and appeared to be lame in the hind legs."

The pony was examined by a vet who said it had 'severely overgrown feet' and had been suffering for approximately six to eight weeks from 'significant pain'.

During a visit to Ms Gough's home in Stony Stratford two days later Miss Cook found four rabbits in hutches in the garden.

Miss Lycourgou said they were inspected by a vet and had to be put down as their teeth had overgrown and dug into their tongue or cheek. They were also underweight and had overgrown nails.

"During interview Ms Gough confirmed that the pony, Kitty, was about 13 years old and she had ownership for about a year. She said she had large hooves when she got her and they had been trimmed twice in that year."

"When Miss Cook visited on November 9 Ms Gough said she had fed and watered the rabbits."

"She said she had not got around to cutting their nails but had nail cutters and was going to ask someone to assist her... she had never checked their teeth but gave them a wood type thing to gnaw on."

The case continues.

MK LETTERS EXTRA

Exceedingly good

SIR – May I take the opportunity through your pages to thank the staff from Serco, who over the last few weeks have been clearing up litter from around our streets.

They are doing a sterling job which is much appreciated by all local residents.

I hope that their very visible presence may remind people not to drop litter.

And while I'm on the subject, could the person who walks around Broughton/Middleton eating six Mr Kiplings' apple pies at a time and then dropping all the packaging along the route please find a bin.

Mrs C Tyler Prady
Hillbeck Grove, Middleton

Parking crunch

SIR – The pinch-fist Lib/Dem administration wants to abolish what little bit of free parking we have in Milton Keynes.

Couple this with the army of traffic wardens issuing tickets like confetti and the credit-crunch and you have a recipe for disaster.

Shop staff tell me that already trade has fallen off due specifically to pay and display. They say that often customers making their first shopping trip to Milton Keynes will make a point of saying they will never come back again.

It is a well-known fact that locals have driven 80 miles to Bluewaters in Kent, where because it is free to park all day they can spend as long as they like mooching about, sitting down for a cup of tea or a spot of lunch, rather than nip into Milton Keynes city centre where they are constantly having to look at the time, worrying whether the traffic wardens are going to pounce.

The 'consultation' at least puts objections on the record, so it is absolutely vital for residents to contact the council at:

Freepost 7058, Changes to CMK Parking, Transport, Civic Offices, 1 Saxon Gate east, MK9 3HN

telephone 01908 252309 or e-mail cmkparkingchange@milton-keynes.gov.uk

Loughton Park ward – Conservative

Snap judgement

SIR – I'm sorry but I don't get it!

If someone from Broughton wants to sell their house an estate agent or photographer will come into the house, photograph the front and rear garden and most of the interior rooms.

These images will be either published in a newspaper or more likely be put onto the web.

Surely having photos of the inside of your house, showing entry points, valuables etc. is more informative to a potential burglar than a Google image?

As for Google images 'showing people how to get in and out' you can find that out that from walking past any house.

I have been asked several times by developers to go visit a completed site to take 'scenes' for brochures etc and have been rudely asked what I was doing.

I was not photographing any one particular house, just street scenes.

I was told buy one angry resident that I should ask all of the house owners for permission as I might be 'casing the area'.

What is it with the latest obsession against photographers?

It all started when everyone got on the bandwagon about photographing people in public places, then we were told we can't capture our children's magic moments at school and we can't photograph them playing sport etc. all because someone looking at the images might be a pervert.

If you want to look at photos of children just get an Argos, Freemans or Mothercare catalogue.

I am a photographer, not a paparazzi and get fed up with having to defend myself when I am doing my job legally.

If I had a TV camera and crew shooting reality TV I bet most of Broughton would invite us in.

We must remember that the burglaries happened BEFORE Google arrived so you must ask yourself how did these stupid burglars ever find their houses, or a way of getting in?

Change could see opposition parties oust minority cabinet

OPPOSITION councillors plan to give themselves the power to overthrow the leader and her cabinet.

Last night Labour leader Cllr Norman Miles was set to propose a motion that would change Milton Keynes Council's constitution.

Instead of two-thirds of the 51 councillors being able to vote to remove the ruling Lib Dems from their position, they want half the council to be able to pass such a motion.

This essentially leaves the Tories and Labour, if they add their 20 and ten respective seats, with the ability to trump the 21 Lib Dem votes in any leadership challenge.

The constitution came into question in May last year when the elections left no party with an overall majority.

The cabinet, which takes decisions on behalf of the whole council, ended up with the unorthodox set-up of the three party leaders: Cllr Isobel McCall, Cllr Andrew Geary and Cllr Norman Miles.

But in June Cllr McCall retained her position during a leadership vote, despite the hung council, forming a Lib Dem cabinet.

Since then, however, there has been backbench dissatisfaction over a party with just 21 of the 51 seats having power.

Cllr Miles says his party does not wish to use this proposed measure unless the Lib Dems do something 'outrageous'.

But Tory leader Cllr Andrew Geary calls it a 'mechanism' available for a failing leader.

Cllr Miles said: "It was always our intention that we would want to change the constitution. We wanted time to think about it. Council retains the right if two parties agreed to remove the leader but this is a step not to be taken lightly. It is a holding measure.

There have been quite a lot of murmurings in the backbenches about how much power the cabinet has got."

Cllr Geary, said: "Last year we essentially put the leader on 12 months' notice.

"So this is effectively bringing it back and saying you haven't done what you said you'd do.

"I don't think the problem is what she's done – it's what she hasn't. We need clear, strong and decisive leadership and the Annual Inspection Letter bears this out.

Cllr McCall said: "I understand it would just be there to be used when necessary by the council. It will be a tool - or a weapon - at their disposal. There does need to be the facility to remove the leader and the cabinet."

She added that there will be an amendment to the rule which prevents a councillor from standing for leadership or cabinet again within six months, as this might leave the council without its ablest members not allowed to run.

Tories and Labour are to join forces to change the council constitution and give them the power to remove leader Isobel McCall, left

Rise no benefit for OAP couple

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

A DISABLED pensioner was given an increase in her benefits after her conditions worsened, only for her husband to have the money docked from his pension.

Anita Rose, 68, from Great Linford, was sent a letter by the Pension Service saying that she is now entitled to severe disablement allowance.

It would increase her income by £5 a week, recognising the fact that she is blighted by emphysema, osteoporosis and angina.

However, the bonus was short-lived after her husband Clifford, 67, a former engineer, was sent a letter from a different department of the service.

It told him his pension credit had been reduced - because his wife was receiving extra money for disability.

"They're giving with one hand and taking away with the other," said Mr Rose.

"They're giving my wife more money because her condition has got worse, and then taking the same amount away from me. This must be happening to couples all over the country. It makes the benefit pointless because whatever they give you for disability allowance they will take back through your pension. The only way my wife could receive this allowance is if I was not on pension credit, therefore this benefit only benefits the rich."

Mr Rose, who said he paid taxes for 50 years, said: "The Government can't get back the £700,000 pension of Sir Fred Goodwin, but they have no problem clawing back £5 a week from us."

Mrs Rose, who has to use morphine patches and carries round an oxygen tank said: "I was very upset when I realised the extra money I had been given was being taken away."

The couple's MP, Mark Lancaster, who has vowed to raise the issue in Parliament, said: "It is now clear that the Government has got this country in such an economic mess that they have resorted to giving with one hand and taking away with the other but still expect people to be grateful.

"I'm not surprised the Government are held in such contempt if they treat my constituents as fools in this way."

A spokesman for the Department for Work and Pensions said that she could not comment on individual cases.

She added: "Pension Credit is a means tested benefit. If an individual or couple's income changes, the amount of pension credit may alter as a result."

Clifford and Anita Rose: His pension credit has been reduced because his wife's has increased

German sculptor Ekkehard Altenburger on top of the hospital arch
Picture: Anthony Hamilton

New arch a guide around growing hospital

A STONE archway representing ancient medicine has been unveiled at the entrance of Milton Keynes Hospital.

The final touches have been made to the impressive granite sculpture, which celebrates the hospital's Silver Anniversary year.

The Aesculapian arch, by German sculptor and stonemason, Ekkehard Altenburger, is designed to help guide patients and visitors around the hospital.

Standing 3.5 metres tall, the statue was crafted from silver grey, beige and red granite and features bottles, jars, mortar and pestles carved on top.

Helen Taylor, director of MK Arts for Health, said: "The arts have a powerful ability to inspire and support people of all ages and can be a crucial part of the healing process. Our aim is to ensure that the environment at Milton Keynes Hospital remains a positive and uplifting one for patients, visitors and staff."

Arts for all is aim of open weekend

ARTS venues across Milton Keynes have joined forces for a unique programme of events.

The Arts Open Weekend – supported by MK NEWS – takes place between May 15-17.

Eighteen venues ranging from galleries to museums, gardens, the hospital, shopping centres and theatres are all taking part.

One venue taking part is Milton Keynes Hospital.

Helen Taylor director of MK Arts for Health said: "It's great to be included in Arts Open Weekend and remind everyone the mixture of art, sculptures and installations we have at the Hospital.

"We have two fantastic artists who will be running workshops using simple printmaking techniques based on the artworks in the hospital art collection.

"We are also hosting guided tours around a selection of the hospital's 400 paintings and sculptures. We have work from both local and internationally renowned artists and from prestigious national collections, and we care for the largest permanent art collection in MK, - it's also one of the largest hospital art collections in the UK".

In contrast to the more traditional work at the hospital, just a stones-throw away at the Old Rectory in Peartree Bridge, Inter-Action MK will be inviting kids to transform their trash into art.

The young people will create rubbish people, shadowy rodents and a monster car that will all inhabit Inter-Action's garden for the weekend.

Everyone is invited to visit on Sunday, May 17 to see some very creative recycling and have a go at making some art themselves.

Lucy Bedford, arts development officer said: "We wanted to show Milton Keynes's residents the rich, high quality arts opportunities available to them and are really excited to see the arts sector come together in this way"

■ The full programme is now available online: www.milton-keynes.gov.uk/openweekend and you can also pick up copies from your local library or arts centre.

Big award for Big Draw event

MILTON Keynes Gallery has received a prestigious award.

The 'Drawing Inspiration' Award was part of the Campaign for Drawing for its successful Big Draw event in 2008.

Last October, 1,250 events took place in 1,100 venues across the UK and out of all these Big Draw programmes, Milton Keynes Gallery won the Runner Up Award for their event.

The Awards took place at The British Museum on March 30.

Nyla Elahi, Education Assistant at Milton Keynes Gallery received the Award and a commemorative certificate designed by leading illustrator and campaign patron, Quentin Blake.

Sue Grayson Ford, Campaign Director, said: "Milton Keynes Gallery fully demonstrated the Big Draw's aims of bringing people together, engaging them creatively and supporting active learning all through drawing. I am amazed how organisers constantly expand the boundaries of drawing by bringing vast amounts of enthusiasm and imagination to their events."

More than 400 children and adults took part in the Big Draw Family Day, joining professional artists, scientists, volunteers and staff in workshops inspired by the art and science themes of Gilberto Zorio's exhibition at the Gallery in October 2008.

Activities included shadow puppetry, drawn animation on 16mm film, spin drawings on potters' wheels, the use of chemical reactions to make planetary drawings, pendulum painting and UV cosmic drawings made with glow wands in a dark room.

The day concluded with a glow in the dark 'Ultimate Frisbee' game on Margaret Powell Square outside the Gallery. In partnership with Adult Continuing Education, Milton Keynes Gallery also ran 'Inspired by' workshops to experiment with energy, and draw with light and chain reactions. Artists provided taster sessions for teachers, student teachers and art students, building their confidence to develop cross-curricular art and science projects.

After8 marshalls mint idea to curb taxi aggro

A GROUP of taxi marshals have been dubbed 'angels of the night' and praised for improving safety in the city centre.

The After8 taxi marshal system was introduced earlier this year, with staff working late night shifts in Central Milton Keynes to help get people home safely after a night out.

Under the new management of Leisure Sec and operating with new guidelines, the After8 Group's system has now been hailed a success by police.

Inspector Colleen Lavery said: "The high visibility of the marshals acts as a clear deterrent for people who may want to target vulnerable people on their way home from a night out.

"They're based in a very busy area making it easy for people to identify them and access their help and advice.

"The marshals give the public added reassurance and work closely with the police to help ensure that all visitors to the city centre find a safe way home."

The After8 taxi marshals are located outside the Xscape building's KFC doors on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights from 11pm until 4am.

They also help to promote the importance of using licensed taxis.

Victoria Schofield chairman for the After8 Group said: "Their high visibility jackets offer a comforting symbol of authority while offering an approachable persona that has received a great response from the public."

City centre safety: Victoria Schofield talks to one of the After8 marshalls

According to research by the group, 9,676 people were safely escorted to a licensed taxi between January and February 2009.

Daniel Mullins, senior enforcement officer at taxi licensing said: "There are many dangers concerning the use of unlicensed taxis or minicabs that people need to be aware of.

"The area outside Xscape offers late night revellers a safe zone that consists of fully licensed and authorised taxis and minicabs and provides one of the safest options for making their way home or onto another destination."

Kids' club's stolen kit replaced after appeal

A JUNIOR basketball club has had stolen equipment replaced following an appeal through MK NEWS.

The Shenley Scorpions under 11s side was left without basketballs and bibs when they disappeared during a training session.

Head coach Jamie Kesten contacted this paper pleading for readers to send in Tesco Vouchers to buy new materials for the lessons.

Having seen the appeal in MK NEWS Fraser Davidson and the team at Oakhill Secure Training Centre approached the club and offered to replace the stolen equipment free of charge.

Fraser said: "I read about the theft in MK NEWS and saw an opportunity to help out a real community club encouraging positive activities among young people who are enjoying learning the sport of basketball and applying what they have learnt to achieve great things in the Bucks Basketball League."

Jamie said: "Our club is the only basketball club in Milton Keynes that competes against the best teams in Buckinghamshire and neighbouring counties at every age level offering enjoyable training sessions and opportunities for competitive games for all.

"This unbelievably kind offer from Oakhill STC is an absolute godsend for us and will enable our club to continue to offer young people of all ages from across MK and the surrounding areas the chance to enjoy and achieve at the sport of basketball."

He added: "Shenley Scorpions would like to send a massive thank you to MK NEWS for printing the initial appeal which lead to the exceptional generosity of Oakhill Secure Training Centre along with all of the anonymous donations of Tesco vouchers from MK NEWS readers."

Fraser and his colleague Stacey Sellars from Oakhill STC visited the U11s team to present them with their replacement equipment and join in with a few fun games and competitions.

The U11s are welcoming new members to join ,see: www.shenleybasketball.org.uk.

The club is still collecting Tesco Vouchers to help support other age groups in need of new basketballs, these can be sent to: Shenley Scorpions, Shenley Leisure Centre, Burchard Crescent, Shenley Church End, MK5 6HF.

Question Time has all the answers ...

GOT a burning question on MK you want answered, then a new business event is for you.

Organisers Affinity Live! have teamed up with newsreader Peter Sissons, to host a Question Time in Milton Keynes on June 11.

Based on the long-standing television programme, a panel of six influential and local people have been chosen to fight their corner and represent varying opinions on the day.

The topics under discussion will be 'Milton Keynes'; working in the city, living in the city and what can be expected of both in the future.

With such a strong line-up, the debate promises to be as heated as it will be exciting.

The panel will be made up of; Gavin Kibble, finance director of Jungheinrich UK, John Best, ex-CEO of Milton Keynes Council, Dr Ann Limb, chairman of Milton Keynes Community Foundation, Dr Keith Straughan, dean of University Centre Milton Keynes, Robert Goodman, centre director of thecentre:mk and Julia Upton, CEO of Milton Keynes Community Foundation.

The ballroom at the stadiummk, home of MK Dons, will stage what is set to be one of the largest business events ever held in Milton Keynes. An optional package will give ticket holders the opportunity to hear Peter Sissons share life in journalism and will be served with wine and a two-course lunch.

Chairman: Peter Sissons

Neil Muxlow, chief organiser at Affinity said: "This is the first, and most probably the only time, this panel of people will be in the same room together.

"You cannot miss it. We are extremely excited to have Peter Sissons to add that extra celebrity sparkle and to rein in the panel if they get out of hand."

The event, who's main sponsor is Thorney Vauxhall, has been designed to cater for up to 650 guests with tables of 10 available for local businesses and networking groups, however Neil is keen to point out that this is not the normal type of event Affinity has become renowned for.

"Question Time is going to be about fun. We all know Milton Keynes is the centre of the universe for networking but for this particular day, it's about taking your staff or clients out and enjoying yourself whilst at the same time, hearing, right from the horses' mouths, what is going on in MK. There is allocated 'mingling' time during the morning but I think the real highlight of the day will be in the discovery of some very interesting thoughts and facts from well-known local VIPs. It will be enlightening and very entertaining."

Information on ticket prices and menus are available on the website affinitylive.biz.

There are a small number of sponsorship packages available also. For more information, Neil Muxlow can be contacted directly on 0845 434 8010 or e-mail: neil@affinitylive.biz

Super gran takes a drop for charity

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

AN 80-year-old grandmother is to jump out of an aeroplane at 10,000 feet to raise money for Willen Hospice.

Barbara Harris, from Olney Road, Emberton will join 14 other volunteers to take part in a charity skydive on Saturday, May 9.

The jump has been organised in response to the hospice's recent announcement that they are struggling financially and will suffer a budget shortfall of more than half a million pounds this year.

Barbara was involved in fundraising to help set up the hospice and has worked at the charity's sorting warehouse for ten years.

Her mother died at the hospice just before its official opening in 1981 and the facility has since helped many more of her friends and family.

Barbara lost her husband Don, aged 82, suddenly to cancer last November, days before she was to celebrate her 80th birthday.

"He would have been helped by Willen if the cancer hadn't taken him so quickly," she said. "I wanted to raise some money and said I can't walk far and I haven't got a very good bike. I've got no fear of it, it will be a lifetime experience. Being in the lime-light like this is worse than jumping!"

She has never done a skydive before but tried out para-sailing when she was 70.

"I enjoyed that, the thrill of being up in the air and looking round," she said.

Barbara has two sons and four grandchildren. Her husband, Don, was a retired cabinet maker who worked at Stanley Woods in Olney and the couple both worked behind the bar at Olney Working Men's Club for 25 years.

She has already raised around £1,500 for Willen Hospice in a fortnight and aims to beat a target of £2,000.

Barbara Harris will join 14 others in a charity skydive

Other volunteers taking part in the skydive include the hospice's chief executive, Paul Hinson, hospice nurses and support staff and Conservative parliamentary candidate for Milton Keynes South, Iain Stewart.

Mr Hinson said: "In February Willen Hospice announced that it was predicting a half a million pound shortfall in funding in the current financial year. Extra donations and offers of support have been received, however the predicted shortfall will still be realised. It is hoped that through fundraising ideas such as the team parachute jump, the MK Midnight Moo night walk for women and the support of the community of Milton Keynes that the next financial year will be a more positive one financially."

Don't lose your bottle

– no coat hangers, plastic food trays, carrier bags or yoghurt pots in your pink sack please

SINCE it began in June 2007, Cash for Trash, the council's incentive scheme rewarding residents who recycle, has given away in the region of £10,000 to lucky residents recycling correctly with their pink sacks and blue boxes.

Our original sponsor Community Waste, which operates our recycling facility, has given away £100 each week since the start of the scheme.

New refuse and recycling contractor Serco recently took over sponsorship of a second weekly prize from Cory Environmental, and offers £100 of Love2Shop gift vouchers which can be redeemed at many high street outlets.

For more information visit: www.highstreetvouchers.com/gift-vouchers/love2shop-vouchers.

Every week, representatives from the council visit a household chosen at random looking for pink sacks and blue boxes containing the right items and placed correctly on the property boundary.

We are grateful to the many Milton Keynes residents who recycle as much as they do. But please remember we only want paper, cardboard, plastic bottles, aluminium foil and food and drink cans in your pinks sacks, with glass bottles and jars in your blue box.

Some people put almost anything in their pink sacks. Plastic is often the culprit we can only take plastic bottles for recycling - any other plastics, such as coat hangers, carrier bags, yoghurt pots and plastic food trays, go in your black sack.

So don't be caught out and make sure you are in with a chance to win. Recently we've been out in Conniburrow, Furzton, Walnut Tree, Bletchley, Middleton, Oldbrook, Wolverton and Bradwell we could be coming to your street soon.

To find out more about the Cash for Trash scheme, see a gallery of some of our recent winners and to check out the rules in full, visit www.milton-keynes.gov.uk/cashfortrash.

Cash For Trash

A recycling fact

Recycling aluminium cans not only saves natural resources but uses 95% less energy than making new aluminium cans.

More chances to win money each week. £100 could be yours just for recycling.

Serco, who collect MK's recycling, have pledged £100 worth of Love2shop vouchers per week in addition to the £100 provided by Community Waste Ltd.

With two £100 prizes up for grabs each week, there's no excuse not to recycle!

£1,000 worth of vegetable garden

A VEGETABLE garden will be built at Radcliffe School after a team of young entrepreneurs won £1,000.

The students from Radcliffe School's Social Enterprise Group claimed the top prize at the final of 'What's the Big Idea?', a project inspired by BBC's 'Dragon's Den', held at the Chrysalis Theatre on Friday.

They competed against eight other groups of young people aged between 13 to 19, pitching ideas that could benefit the community to a panel of judges.

The young entrepreneurs took questions from the 'Dragons', made up of Denise Rushton, CEO of Make a Difference, Sheena Sodha, founder of the Milton Keynes Youth Parliament, Wes Venn, Heart Radio's breakfast show presenter and Paramjit Boyal, deputy manager of the Milton Keynes Community Safety Partnership.

The Radcliffe group's Urban Garden caught the imagination of the judges. The organic produce will be sold to a local buyer andprofits shared between keeping the project running and the Sea Cadets.

The £1,000 will buy a new greenhouse, seeds and tools ahead of the summer.

Andre Hunter, a member of the project said: "It's fantastic, there is still a party going on in my head."

The other eight finalists each won £500.

TASTE LIFE

Spuds-u-like

AT The Crooked Billet, April is always one of our favourite times of year as all of a sudden a lot lovelier new season food ideas are coming in like early asparagus, early peas and broad beans and Jersey Royal potatoes.

So this time I have done a quick and easy salad with quails eggs which are readily available in shops and treated the same as a hen's egg but you cook it for less time as it's a lot smaller.

The pan-fried trout and asparagus dish is very quick and simple but so tasty you could cook for friends coming round,

We all know that when Easter has come and gone its officially time to get stuck in to all those lovely vegetables, whether you buy them, grow them or someone else has cooked them, enjoy them.

Emma Gilchrist, chef, Crooked Billet, Newton Longville

Spa-ing partners

WHITTLEBURY HALL

JUST 20 minutes north of Milton Keynes, in the heart of rural Northamptonshire, lies Whittlebury Hall, a four star hotel with three restaurants and a spa.

My partner and I arrived early one Tuesday, along a driveway which lines the golf course and stables.

In order to start our spa day we needed to check in by 9am and from there we were relieved of our luggage and sent to collect our dressing gowns and slippers.

Also inside my personal locker was an itinerary for the day, letting me know what time we were booked in for the buffet lunch and the special treatments we had booked.

However, time is something that is tough to keep track of at Whittlebury, after all it is a luxury retreat, and we were soon bubbling away in the hydrotherapy pool, totally oblivious to the world outside.

The mock-Roman decor at the spa, together with the robe, can make you feel like an emperor for the day.

The day spa packages also include full use of the leisure club facilities for those who wish to balance their relaxation with some exercise in the gym but our visit was purely for relaxation purposes.

The spa staff helpfully suggest which order to tackle their unique Heat and Ice experience.

Firstly, you take a warm shower then a relaxing foot bath, followed by a few minute on a warm bench.

This is intended to help get the circulation going so that the benefits of the other rooms are maximised.

The focal point of the spa is the hydrotherapy pool and although the spa was not particularly busy, the pool seemed to be a popular place to chat away while your muscles were gently massaged by various jets at the push of a button.

Elsewhere, the usual suspects were present - saunas and steam rooms - but there were a couple of unique touches and some great new discoveries.

A bucket and chain allows the braver spa users to be drenched in freezing water before they walk through the Ice Cave to rub crushed ice over the skin.

Feel like a Roman emperor for the day at Whittlebury Hall

The lighting in the Aromatherapy Crystal Steam Room was so relaxing that I nearly fell asleep, a stark contrast to the menthol aromas in the Roman Salt Steam, which awakened my skin and senses.

All in all it was a sensory overload that left me with quite an appetite for lunch.

Overlooking a decent-sized swimming pool, the buffet provided plenty of choice with hot and cold dishes including pasta, jacket potatoes, sweet and sour pork fillets, fish and salads.

The treatments on offer at the spa really provide that extra special treat, perfect for birthdays and special occasions.

The list is extensive and I tried out the hot and cold stone massage, whereby the masseuse uses very warm smooth stones to roll over the hamstring, calf, shoulder and back muscles.

This was incredibly relaxing and softened every muscle in my back.

The care was first class, there was no rush and the accompanying facial treatment left me feeling totally rejuvenated.

My partner was treated to one of the Elemis treatments, an exotic coconut rub and milk ritual which left her skin silky smooth, before a luxury French manicure using the Jessica range of quality products.

By now we were both feeling well and truly pampered and while the day had been relaxing, the evening came before we knew it.

Our hotel room was traditional and comfy while the bathroom was particularly spacious, with two basins, a shower and a nice big bath.

Our dinner reservation was for 8pm at Murray's restaurant, named after the racing commentator, and awarded 2AA Rosettes for fine dining.

There are two other restaurants to choose from, Aston's, a more relaxed continental restaurant, or Bentley's, an informal restaurant with fresh Mediterranean salads, pasta and pizza.

If you hadn't guessed by now, the hotel has a close relationship with the nearby Silverstone Formula One race track and is a popular base for businesses and motor racing fans.

After canapes and drinks in the lounge, we found ourselves in Murray's with a waitress all to ourselves.

The a la carte menu was first rate.

I tried the pigeon starter and my main course, fillet of beef, was sublime.

Again, the service was friendly but unobtrusive, allowing the conversation to flow like the fine wine.

As our visit was midweek, many of our fellow guests were attending a business conference but they seemed equally pleased with the service as we chatted away in the bar.

Nostalgic images and memorabilia line the walls; racing overalls, signed boxing gloves, football shorts and even a Versace suit worn by Elton John, provide added entertainment.

Breakfast was pleasant and a quick visit to the driving range made me yearn for a full 18 holes in the sunshine.

Golf and racing will have to wait for next time, but such breaks are rare and should be savoured at every opportunity.

TELEVISION WEEK

THE best music show on television is back again with another series.

Later with Jools Holland, Friday, BBC2, 11.35pm features the usual eclectic mix of artists which makes the show such compelling viewing.

This week Marianne Faithfull performs songs from her latest album Easy Come/Easy Go, including covers of hits by the likes of Dolly Parton and Morrissey. Manchester-based indie rock trio Doves return to showcase tracks from Kingdom of Rust, and Noisettes pay a visit to the studio to play tunes from their forthcoming album Wild Young Hearts. Plus, performances by Madeleine Peyroux and Rokia Traore, and an interview with hip-hop pioneer Grandmaster Flash.

Saturday, 4.30pm, BBC2 sees the start of live coverage of the afternoon's first-round matches at the Snooker World Championships.

Held at the Crucible Theatre in Sheffield matches feature Stephen Hendry v Mark Williams and Graeme Dott v Barry Hawkins. Hendry and Williams have won this title nine times between them, but Williams dropped out of the top 16 in the rankings last season and needs a victory to help reclaim his place among the world's elite. The commentary team includes Clive Everton, Dennis Taylor and Willie Thorne.

Freedom-of-information campaigner Heather Brooke investigates the controversies surrounding politicians' expense claims, providing an insight into how public money is being spent in Dispatches: The Westminster Gravy Train, 7pm, Channel Four. The programme examines the roles of patronage and lobbying in both houses, questioning to what extent it serves personal rather than public interest, and also looks at the damage being caused by the delays in releasing details of MPs' full expenses.

SIMON DARNELL

EOGHAN QUIGG

Eoghan Quigg (album)

FROM nowhere to TV stardom to the bargain buckets in the space of six months or so – who said the music industry has changed out of all recognition?

Listening to this album took me back to the days when bands would get dropped purely for failing to go straight to No1.

Let's not mess about here. If I told you this album was dreadful, not only would I be doing a huge disservice to the word dreadful, in fact I'd be almost praising the quality of the music.

Now, it's easy to criticise but it helps to explain why this set of songs" is so mind-numbingly, spirit-crushingly dismal. For starters, there's the speed at which this thing has been fired onto the shop shelves.

If you rush a job, chances are it's going to end up a bit cack-handed.

Thing is, the signs are there from the very start.

Only one of the songs included is new (28,000 Friends), but even that sounds like a serving of Caffeine Free Diet Busted that's had the lid left off the bottle for too long.

The chorus desperately attempts to sound relevant by name-checking Facebook and MySpace, giving the impression that he's an international pop star, but At The End Of The Day He's Just Like You And Me TM.

It also sounds cheaply done, which is another theme that continues throughout the proceedings.

If you're expected to hand over the best part of £10 for an album, surely you'd want something that sounds as though some time and effort has been put into it.

At a guess, I'd say that at least a tenner has been spent on making this album sound as good as it possibly can, maybe even a few pence more.

There's just no depth to the songs at all, it's merely surface noise; you won't hear anything new the second or third time you hear it – assuming you'd want to listen to it again.

If there's an orchestra on a particular track, it doesn't sound like a group of people playing their instruments, it sounds like some bloke at a keyboard who's pressed a button marked Orchestra and then started playing.

Then we have the choice of songs. Choosing an Abba song is predictable enough, but who thought it'd be a good idea to have a 16-year old singing 'Does your mother know that you're out?'.

Then there's Busted's Year 3000. "Everybody bought my seventh album," says Eoghan, but judging by how ruthless record labels are he'll be doing well to get as far as a second album on this evidence.

That's not his fault, though. His singing isn't brilliant (especially during the chorus of Never Forget), but given time and training like what Leona Lewis had he'd improve.

Here's his problem – record companies like instant results, so this album's been thrown out with the minimum amount of effort in the shortest time possible.

First week sales should be good, but as word gets around as to how dire the end result is, sales after that will more than likely evaporate completely, thereby making him a perceived failure, and record companies don't like failure just ask Same Difference and Leon Jackson.

Leon had a top three album and he still got dumped.

You've got to feel sorry for Eoghan really; this may be one of the worst albums I've heard in years, but I don't think he's been given a fair crack of the whip.

He might be chuffed to have an album out at all, but sometimes that's not enough.

JAMES LEE BYARS

April 4-June 21

MILTON Keynes Gallery presents a free exhibition of work by the late artist James Lee Byars (1932-1997).

MKG is also presenting a complementary exhibition of work by the artist in Venice this summer at the Palazzo Pesaro Papafava during the 2009 Venice Biennale.

Byars was one of the 20th century's most enigmatic artists. The exhibition presents a succint overview of Byars practice, including sculptures, works on paper and film documentation of his performances. The majority of works will be presented in the UK for the first time.

Byars questioned the boundaries between art and life as demonstrated through his prolific letter writing to his friends and compelling performances. His letters sometimes adorned with gold dust, brought together everyday anecdotes with his idiosyncratic philosophical musings.

For further information and special events surrounding the exhibition log on to www.mk-g.org

Whodunnit? Agatha Christie Theatre Company bring Spider's Web to MK Theatre

CABARET

Until Saturday

THIS smash hit musical come to Milton Keynes with all of its sassy style.

Samantha Barks, the runner up from BBC TV's I'd Do Anything, stars as the legendary Sally Bowles, who performs nightly at the infamous Kit Kat Klub.

She joins world renowned dancer and TV favourite Wayne Sleep, who reprises his role as the notorious Emcee.

SPIDER'S WEB

April 20-25

THE Agatha Christie Theatre Company bring their fourth instalment in the highly acclaimed series of the writer's productions to the city.

When the wife of a Foreign Office diplomat, with a tendancy to 'spin' tales, discovers a dead body in the drawing room, she frantically attempts to dispose of it before her husband returns home.

But having persuaded her house guests to help her, it soon becomes apparant that the recently deceased was not unknown to everyone among them.

And so the web of deceit starts to unravel, as a desperate attempt to unveil a murderer and a motive ensues!

Taylors & Wilson Peacock launch Chain Free initiative for local buyers

Taylors & Wilson Peacock Estate Agents has launched a brand new initiative for local buyers and sellers to enable rapid house purchases.

The Chain Free initiative is exclusively for home owners looking to sell quickly. Properties featured in this campaign have a dedicated web page on www.taylorsestateagents.co.uk

For buyers keen to make the most of low property prices and interest rates, Chain Free showcases properties that are available for early occupation as no chain is involved in the sale.

Explaining the concept Managing Director, Peter Wallace said: "We were one of the first agents to recognise that in this climate our customers want a fast, hassle-free purchase. We've got fantastic properties, offering great value."

Chain Free properties include part-exchange, repossessions, relocation instructions, vacant properties and local sellers wanting a quick sale.

Local sellers frustrated by slow house sales should contact Taylors to see if they can market their home through this new initiative.

Peter added: "We have access to a vast range of properties that are available now for early occupation and a specialist Fast Start conveyancing service, which is proven to reduce the time it takes for house sales to complete. Visit our Taylors website or call 01908 678151 to book an appointment."

Smart Moves acts as 'agent' in MK Dons staff signings

A RECRUITMENT firm have provided MK Dons with two new members of staff.

Smart Moves Recruitment, which is an official seasonal programme sponsor, has played an instrumental role in helping the Dons expand its corporate sales team as part of its on-going growth and development.

Such is the demand that the Dons has appointed John Lloyd as business sales executive and Kate Sreeves as business sales co-ordinator who both came through the agency.

James Parkinson, head of partnership at the club and driving force behind business development said: "We have seen a huge take up in stadium advertising and client entertainment; it can only be down to the credit crunch making companies work harder at increasing market share and seeing that their top clients are kept close.

"With this growth happening we had to quickly build on the existing team. I decided to use an agency to help in this task as I knew time was limited and we wanted to get the right quality candidates interviewed as soon as possible.

"Smart Moves listened to our needs and very quickly found strong applicants for us to interview which saved the club a lot of time in sifting through CV's and screening applicants."

John Lloyd and Julia Hale of Smart Moves Recruitment with Dons defender Miguel Angel Llera and new Dons signings Louisa Harris and Kate Sreeves

"John and Kate have settled into the club very quickly and we are delighted with their progress and we look forward to working on a long relationship with them both."

Louisa Harris from Smart Moves Recruitment added: "We are immensely proud to be associated with the MK Dons and were delighted when asked to recruit two additional key members of staff."

Jobs growing with Network Rail's new office facility

AS MK NEWS revealed last year Network Rail will be investing heavily in Milton Keynes.

The company will be creating around 3,000 jobs in a new state-of-the-art facility to be built on the site of the former hockey stadium.

Close to agreeing terms for the first phase of Network Rail's expansion into Milton Keynes, it is hoped that by the summer facilities will exist for 300 to 400 people.

On the back of this, Clough Smith Rail is the first private company to put plans into action and has taken space from Bidwells in Central Milton Keynes. Charles Macdonald, head of Bidwells Milton Keynes office said: "The space provides Clough Smith Rail with an excellent base from which to deliver contracts in the area."

Network Rail has said that its new purpose built centre should be up and running in the town by the end of 2011.

Iain Coucher, chief executive for National Rail explained the reason behind their move to MK.

He said: "Network Rail spans Great Britain. We have 80 corporate offices across the country, but no national hub. Creating this heart for the business is an important step in delivering our long-term plans. That is why we have started planning ahead for a state-of-the-art centre based in Milton Keynes. Creating a national centre will make us better and innovative in the way we work, supporting our routes to deliver a better service for our customers and rail users."

For further information about the availability of business space in and around Milton Keynes, contact Charles Macdonald at Bidwells on 01908 202190.

You will be asked to bring to a close their time in Year 5 with a hands-on, creative approach to teaching and learning, within a welcoming team. The children will be looking forward to Year 6. Reports will be completed by their substantive teacher.

We are considering a creative approach to filling the vacancy, so if you are interested, please contact us so that we can talk over possibilities e.g. a job share, mornings only and so on.

Further details and application forms can be collected from the school or sent out to you. Please contact Natalie McKean at Orchard School's office on 01908 670681 from Monday 20 April when the school re-opens from the Easter break. Visits to the schools are encouraged.

A WINNING Easter weekend has reignited MK Dons' automatic promotion hopes.

Victories over Bristol Rovers and Southend United, coupled by Peterborough United dropping five points have moved the Dons to within four points of second-place and they still have a game in hand over Posh.

Just over two weeks ago boss Roberto Di Matteo ruled out a top two finish but it appears to have worked as a motivation technique for his players.

The Italian said:"We keep going and then we try to win our games. We can't affect what the others do, just try and win all the games we can.

"We've won the last few games so lets just go into the next game, try to win and lets see what happens.

"We want to finish the season on a positive. We will try to do that and where ever we are at the end of the season we will deal with it."

On Good Friday Southend provided the Dons with a difficult challenge but in the end Di Matteo's side were too strong.

While Mark Wright's diving header and injury time strike put him on the score sheet it was Stephen Gleeson who earned the plaudits for an impressive display in the middle of the park in only his second game since joining on loan from Wolves.

Gleeson's cross provided the ball for Wright's opener 14 minutes into the second half.

Up to that point the Dons had to weather the storm from Southend, who had a brilliant effort from Theo Robinson saved by Willy Gueret in the third minute.

However, the chance of the first-half undoubtedly fell to Luke Chadwick only for the midfielder to struggle control the ball at his feet resulting in a tumble with the slightest of touches calling on a simple save from Mildenhall from just yards-out.

Luckily Chadwick made up for the shocker when he started the move which brought in Gleeson and ended in the Dons' first goal.

Di Matteo added: "I thought we had a great performance, played well, defended well when the time was to defend and going forward we showed how dangerous we are when we can break."

Which was demonstrated as Southend piled forward in the dying minutes only for Gleeson to collect possession and thread through for Wright to slot home.

On Monday the Dons were in control for the majority of their game against Bristol Rovers with Ali Gerba opening the scoring on the 29th minute.

Canadian striker Gerba showed great work-rate as he closed down Bryon Anthony, stole the ball and produced a clinical finish past Steve Phillips.

Rovers' top scorer Rickie Lambert proved disappointing up front with a host of wasted long-range attempts.

Jason Puncheon's understanding with Gerba set up a number of opportunities but the midfielder could only test the side netting.

A much deserved second for the Dons came when Gerba's dink ball was slotted in by Luke Chadwick.

Bristol ensured a nervy end to the game when Steve Elliott's header beat Willy Gueret four minutes from time, yet the Dons held on.

They are now three points clear of fifth placed Leeds and six points clear of Tranmere, who occupy the final play-off place.

DONS fans have until tomorrow (Thursday) to vote for their Player of the Year.

The MK Dons end of season awards, which are sold out, take place next week at stadiummk and supporters have the opportunity to vote for their 2008/09 Player of the Year and Goal of the Season.

There is no short-list for the awards, all supporters need to do is log on to www.mkdons.com and register their vote.

Voting closes on Thursday, April 16 at 5pm, with the awards to be presented at the event on Tuesday, 21.

A COURSE run by MK Dons Sport and Education Trust which aims to get children fit is open to new recruits.

The MK Dons SET have launched April's Onside for Life programme which runs in accordance with their Mind, Exercise, Nutrition and Do it! (MEND) project to provide tools for a healthy lifestyle for children above their target body mass index (BMI).

They are only the second club community course to operate the course in Britain and as such are spearheading with the PCT and School Sports Partnership the campaign for improving child health in Milton Keynes.

A generous grant from MK-based National Hockey Foundation has been key to the cause.

The course, which takes place over a 10 week period, is completely free and requires the child and their parents to attend two sessions a week to learn about nutrition, exercise and how to change bad eating habits.

Onside for Life programme manager, Jemma Murray, said: "The important thing about this course is that it is not a diet, it is meant to be a way of teaching families how to look at their eating patterns, adjusting their thinking long term and promoting self esteem in the children who can struggle with confidence coming in to the course".

The 'Onside for Life' programme commences Monday 27th April and will be held at three venues across MK.

If you are interested, and your child is between 7-13 years old, contact Jemma on 01908 622885 or e-mail jemma.murray@mkdons.com

SCUNTHORPE
League One
Saturday, April 18
Glanford Park KO 3pm

A MUST win game if the Dons are to keep up the pressure on Peterborough and Millwall in second and third respectively.

At the same time Scunthorpe, who had a mixed Easter with one win and one defeat, need three points to claw back a place in the play-offs.

The Irons' home record reads 12 wins, four draws and four defeats but they face a Dons side who have won on their travels 11 times this season.

Roberto Di Matteo has injured trio Sam Baldock, Peter Leven and Aaron Wilbraham as doubts for the game.

Scunthorpe will be without Samuel Togwell who serves a two match suspension for 10 cautions.

Red Bull want diffusers on the level

A WEEK without racing does not mean Formula One has gone all quiet, in fact, far from it.

Yesterday Red Bull Racing were one of four teams challenging Brawn GP, Toyota and Williams' use of a split-level diffuser.

Red Bull, along with Ferrari, Renault and BMW Sauber argue the aerodynamic body part does not conform with new regulations brought in for the 2009 season.

The claims were initially rejected by motorsport's governing body, the FIA, but the matter went to the International Court of Appeal.

During the meeting in Paris an independent panel heard arguments for and against the diffuser and a final ruling is expected today.

If the diffuser is found to be an illegal part, in keeping with the rules, points are expected to be deducted from Brawn, Toyota and Williams.

It would be a huge blow for Brawn after winning the opening two races.

However, if it is proved no rules have been breached the teams not using the diffuser may look twice at the option.

Including Red Bull whose team principal Christian Horner said they could consider using the body part that aids performance.

He said: "We started to look at the concept several weeks ago when we saw the cars run for the first time.

"If the design is fully legal after 14 April then the seven teams will have to explore development in that area.

"We will accept the decision but would like to have absolute clarity going forward."

The controversy surrounding the diffuser-saga has taken away from the fact that the Formula One season has started with a bang.

And it is likely to continue in the unpredictable fashion in China this weekend.

The teams will have two practise sessions on the Shanghai track on Friday, with a third on Saturday before qualifying.

The race itself, the third of the season, is on Sunday at 8am when Red Bull will be hoping for better luck this time round.

New recruit Sebastian Vettel is yet to finish a race for Red Bull while Mark Webber notched up their only points of the season, one and a half, during the abandoned Malaysian GP.

Lions facing three-way fight for play-off place

MK LIONS 73

EVERTON TIGERS 96
Smith 30, Jones 17, Midgley 16

A VITAL win over the Scottish Rocks has left MK Lions in a three way battle for the final two play-off spots.

The Lions are now tied with Cheshire Jets and Sheffield Sharks on 14 wins in then British Basketball League and it is the Rocks, having lost ten in a row, who are in a precariously in sixth place.

The hosts started the game the faster and put the first four points on the board before leading 10-6 just over four minutes in.

However, from there the Lions asserted their authority with an 18-3 surge that included two three-pointers and 10 points for Terrell Brown. The Rocks recovered late in the quarter as Chi Lewis-Parry scored the last five points to make the score 20-26.

That momentum was stalled by Williams as he hit two three-pointers in the opening 22 seconds of the second quarter. Dru Spinks added to those for a 20-34 lead for the Lions.

The Rocks responded with five straight points, but they were halted by a Williams triple once more to push the lead back into double- figures at 25-37. Wilbur Johnson and Williams then entered a personal battle, cancelling each other out as the former scored five straight points and the latter responded in kind, before the Lions finished the stanza with a 9-2 run. Obazuaye scored the last five points for a 34-51 lead for the Lions at the break.

The efforts of that pair were aided by Tommy Eddie in the third quarter as the trio scored the first 16 points for the Lions. Eddie scored eight points, and Williams added another three-pointer, in a two minute spell as a 13-4 run made the score 47-69 after a brief rally from the Rocks. Brown added another three-pointer before the Rocks narrowed the gap in the last two minutes. Johnson scored five in a 9-2 finish that kept their hopes alive at 62-76 going into the fourth.

The Rocks made a go of it in the fourth quarter, but were held off by the Lions and never managed to get the lead back within single figures.

Days earlier the Lions lost to BBL Cup winner Everton Tigers.

■LIONS have one more game to secure a play-off place. They travel to Plymouth Raiders on Saturday. Tip-off is at 7.30pm.

Poulter fails to maintain his record Masters class

IAN Poulter's chance of slipping on the green jacket disappeared when he fell away on the final day at the Masters.

The Woburn professional was in contention to challenge for the Masters crown at Augusta only to finish with a 74 to stand at two under.

The tournament had started well for Poulter with 71 on his first round then a 72 on day two.

On day three Poulter registered a stunning 68, it was the lowest ever round at the Masters for the 33-year-old and the four-under put him in a good position. However, he was unable to continue with his form when it mattered with a disappointing final day proving costly with 74 for two-under.

In the round he and Lee Westwood were joint tenth when they resumed but Poulter's 74, which included just one birdie, saw him rack up a total of 276.

Argentina's Angel Cabrera won the Masters beating Kenny Perry and Chad Campbell in a play-off.

The trio were tied on 12 under following a Cabrera's slip-up at the final two holes.

Baggaley signs new Spanish contract

MILTON Keynes' best known table tennis player is extending his stay in Spain to play the sport he loves.

Andrew Baggaley, a Commonweath gold and silver medallist, signed a new one-year deal with Borges Grup Vallwho play in the Spanish National League.

Baggaley, crowned English Champion on two separate occasions and was the youngest ever British Champion at 15, extended his agreement with the Catalan club until the Summer of 2010 with an option to further extend.

The MK resident was a London 2012 Olympic Bid Ambassador and is a genuine contender for a medal at the Olympic Games in three years time.

SPORTSSHORTS

Muddiman retained

OLNEY retained their Muddiman Cup for another season with a thumping win over Long Buckby.

The annual fixture took place at the weekend due to the South West East Two division's Easter break.

A 80-7 victory for Olney emphasised the one-sided nature of the game but Long Buckby did lose two key players early in the game to injury.

Eight players crossed the line for Olney with Steve Harrison, T-Davis and Chaplin scored two tries each while Scott Filler, George Stanton, Small and Gavin Fogg scored once.

Davies added 16 points with the boot while Dan and Harrison also converted tries.

Lightning pile on the pressure against Peterborough in the EPL final

A HEARTBREAKING defeat to local rivals Peterborough United cost MK Lightning the Play-Off Finals Trophy.

Lightning booked a place in the final through a dramatic penalty win over Guildford Flames but the following day watched the Phantoms complete a historic treble.

They picked up the EPL Cup and the EPL League Trophy earlier in the season to complete the perfect year for the Phantoms.

Lightning pushed them all the way with just the one goal they needed to take the game into overtime evading them.

It was thanks to penalty strikes from Adam Carr and Andre Smulter that Lightning had the chance to challenge for the title.

Their success in the semi-final penalty shoot-out knocked out Guildford in another tense match.

Gary Clarke opened the scoring for Lightning against the Flames with 11.42 minutes on the clock, only for Ollie Bronnimann to level in the second period.

The Flames went ahead for the first time seven minutes into the final period through Nick Cross, yet Joakim Wiklander's 58th minute strike meant the game, after a score less over time, was decided through the shoot-out.

Having won in such nail-biting circumstances Lightning went into their final with Peterborough in a confident mood.

Their positive attitude helped break the deadlock with only 44 seconds on the clock.

Carr and Wiklander combined to assist Clarke in the lightning quick move which could have unsettled Peterborough.

Unfortunately, for Lightning's players, it had the reverse affect as Peterborough, with ex-MK stars Dwayne Newman and James Morgan in their ranks, rallied together.

Phantoms hit back in a storming fashion with Maris Ziedins hitting the equaliser on 13.35 before Brent Gough and Craig Peacock added Peterborough's second and third in the next five minutes.

Once again Lightning came firing out of the blocks in the second period with a second goal coming 32 seconds after the break.

But Peterborough responded through James Hutchinson to restore their two goal lead.

Lightning never gave up and were back in the mix when Smulter found the back of the net following good work in the build up from Grant McPherson and Michael Wales.

Yet the prospect of letting a trophy slipping through their hands drove on Phantoms to take a 5-3 advantage.

And by the time Poole netted a fourth for Lightning there were only 50 remaining.

Phantoms held on to their win to deny Lightning silverware for another the season.

With the season over ice hockey fans in Milton Keynes have Poole's testimonial match where MK All Stars take on Bobby's Boys to look forward to this weekend, until the season starts again later this year.

■ NICK Poole's testimonial is at Planet Ice this Saturday. Face-off 6.30pm.
